 Harold Boyle arrived home from Des Moines last week where he received his discharge.
 Mr. and Mrs. John Engle of Ponca, were guests in the Claud Putman home one day last week.
 Margaret Ryan attended a K. C. dancing party in Sioux City last Thursday evening.
 The Misses Mildred Ryan and Irene Dunn spent over Sunday with relatives in Sioux City.
 Mrs. Wm. Riley expects to leave the last of the week for Cleveland, Ohio, enroute she expects to visit in Clinton and Dubuque, Iowa.
 Mrs. J. J. McBride of Sioux City, will accompany her. They expect to be gone about six weeks.
 Mrs. R. F. Magill entertained the card club in her home last Thursday evening. Refreshments consisting of strawberries, ice cream and cake were served at the close of the evening.
 Mary Cory who attends school here spent the week end in the home of her parents near Ponca. She was accompanied home by Catherine Flynn.
 Victor Nelson is having a coal shed and chicken house built this week on the lot he recently purchased from Harry Goodfellow.
 A recital was given by the music pupils of St. Catherine academy Sunday evening.
 Capt. Geo. W. Grisson of Omaha, representing the Volunteers of America was in town Monday soliciting funds.
 Henry O'Neill shipped a car load of baby beef to the Omaha market Monday and William Hartnett and Con Deloughery had a load on the Sioux City market Tuesday.
 Mrs. H. A. Austin returned the last of the week from LeMars, Iowa, where she was called by the death of her father, John Bubb. The remains were interred at Graceland Cemetery in Sioux City. Mr. Austin's father had died suddenly in Sioux City two days before.

 Ed Mitchell arrived home Saturday evening from New York where he received his discharge.

HOMER

Dr. Edith Johnson, of Palo Alto, Cal., arrived recently to visit her sister, Mrs. Louis Rockwell, and other relatives.
 Mrs. Sadie Abbott arrived here last Thursday after spending the winter at her old home in Woodstock, Vt. She visited her niece, Mrs. Nellie Woodward, in Chicago on her trip home.
 Mrs. Louis Rockwell, who had her arm broken a short time recently, was taken to Sioux City Sunday for an x-ray examination.
 The Misses Mayme and Bessie Holsworth were guests of Prof. Demel and family at Coleridge Friday.
 Axel Christensen returned from Jay Em, Wyo., Friday, where he had gone to attend the funeral of Mrs. Christensen's sister. Mrs. Christensen remained for a short visit with relatives.
 Chas. Ostmeier of Sioux City, was a visitor with his mother, Mrs. Augusta Ostmeier, Saturday. His daughter Hazel was operated on in a Sioux City hospital for an abscess, caused by an appendicitis operation a year ago. She is getting along nicely, being well enough to return to her home.
 Mrs. Redden was down from Sioux City between trains Sunday and took Gladys back with her.
 Garret Mason and family were guests at the Lester Miller home in Winnebago Sunday, and also called at the Hestling home in Blyburg.
 Vic Nelson, of Jackson, was a Homer visitor Tuesday.
 Mrs. Tom Allaway was surprised by some of her friends calling on her last Saturday, it being her birthday.
 Fred Wagner and Harold Lothrop have arrived in the good U. S. A. from overseas.
 Miss Marjorie McKinley and Miss Helen Bolster were Winnebago visitors between trains Sunday.
 Miss Gertrude McKinley of South Sioux was a between train visitor with her parents, B. McKinley and wife, Sunday.
 Charley Priest and wife of Sioux City, were Homer visitors Sunday.
 Will Mason and family motored up from Walthill Sunday in their big new car to call on Ma and Pa Mason.
 Mrs. Nelson Smith was a Sioux City goer Friday and visited in the Rev. Keckler home until Monday.

a painful carbuncle on his neck. He has gone right along with his school work just the same.
 Miss Olive Leamer was a between-train visitor at home Sunday.
 Mrs. Geo. Wilkins, of Lincoln, is visiting in the home of George's parents, August Wilkins and wife.
 The "married club" gave the second of their select dances Monday night. A colored orchestra from Sioux City furnished the music. Why not employ the home orchestra and give them the chance for improvement and experience? The other orchestra had to get the experience before they became proficient. This is not a paid adv., but just a boost for home trade.
 Dr. Davis, who has been here for more than a year to look after Dr. Stidworthy's practice, left Tuesday for Viborg, S. D.
 Miss Mabel Bartels was a Homer visitor Sunday to take in the ball game between the boys in the Bartels district and the home team. Homer won.

 The Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Redden Tuesday of last week as a farewell to Mrs. Geo. Thacker, who soon will move to South Sioux, where they have bought a beautiful home. This is the second family that is leaving us to gladden South Sioux with their presence. We hear of still another who is to do the same and we must make it so pleasant here that they will want to build HERE instead of buying in South Sioux.

SOUTH SIOUX CITY

From Sioux City Journal, 7th:
 A disagreement between South Sioux City councilmen and the South Sioux City bank over the suburb's recent purchase of a road tractor has caused the city to withdraw its funds from that institution. Councilmen were somewhat reticent concerning the change, but said that the city treasurer had been ordered to transfer the city funds to the Security bank at Homer, Neb. The action was taken at last night's council meeting.
 A sewerage system, approximately two miles in length, will probably be constructed in South Sioux City in the near future, a committee being appointed by the council last night to procure estimates on the work. They will employ K. C. Gaynor of Sioux City.
 Last night's meeting marked the retirement of Councilmen Fred Miller and A. B. Cowie, succeeded by A. J. Hall and T. J. Flanagan, elected in April.
 Joe Kloster was appointed chief of police to succeed Harvey Phillips, resigned; Dr. R. J. MacArthur was appointed health physician, and James Hogan and George Leamer were re-appointed as water and light commissioner and city attorney, respectively.
 An adjourned session of the council will be held Friday night to act on Mayor Phillips' suggestion for the appointment of three merchants to act as policemen, with compensation according to the number of arrests.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

C. R. Young, County Agent

The Nebraska Junior Farmers' Week will be held at the University Farm, Lincoln, May 26 to 30. This is an educational week exclusively for boys and girls who have completed a project in the Junior Club work. For the boys who attend, this will mean a course in Agriculture and for the girls one in home economics. The courses are interspersed with enough variation and instructive entertainment to make them pleasant. Last year seven club members went from this county. Responsible persons will be in charge of these young people from the time they arrive in Lincoln until they take their departure. A fee of seven dollars will be charged each individual for board and lodging, which will be taken at the College Farm. For further instructions write the County Agent or L. I. Frisbie, University Farm, Lincoln.
 Have you signed a petition yet, asking our next Congress to repeal the "Daylight Saving" law? If not, draw up a petition asking Congress to take this step. Secure as many signatures as possible and mail it to the County Agent's office. Hundreds of men in this and other states are taking this step. Push the good thing along.
 A few are enquiring about Sudan grass for hay pasture. Several small fields grown in the county for hay during the past two years have done fine. Two cuttings, one about four feet and a second cutting about two and a half, are generally secured. Both horses and cattle eat the hay splendidly. Reports from other counties are to the effect that it makes good pasture grass. Seeding should be after danger from frost at the rate of about twenty pounds per acre.
 Necrotic enteritis, which is one of the several forms of Necrobacillosis, has become so prevalent in our hog lots that it is almost as much to be dreaded as hog cholera. This is one of the diseases where an ounce of prevention is worth as much as a pound of cure. For this reason, we would suggest the feeding at intervals to all hogs, the government formula for this disease. It consists of a mixture of sulphate of copper 1 part, hyposulphite of soda 4 parts, charcoal 2, salt 6 parts. When used as a preventative, feed a teaspoonful night and morning for two or three days at intervals of three weeks. Not only is this a fine intestinal antiseptic but it also removes worms as well.

Lutheran Church Notes
 By Rev C. R. Lowe.
 The date for the special meeting of synod and the conference is set again, it is the week beginning the 26th day of May. Let us hope it will come off this time as scheduled. The conference is to meet following the synodical meeting. There will be a joint meeting of the Nebraska synod and the German Nebraska synod this time. Synod at Fremont and conference at St. Mark's church, Omaha, as was previously intended.
 One said to me not long ago that he thought the Lutheran church run to theory in her preaching theology, more than any other church. What is theology? It is a scientific collection and arrangement of the truths of the bible. The bible does not claim to be a scientific book. Now when a preacher preaches from the bible, and there are none who do so more than the Lutheran preachers as a class, would you say his preaching run to theory because he was preaching a scientific sermon on the doctrines of the bible? You would not say Prof. Props of the state dairy school was giving you theory because he was giving you the scientific things about the dairy business. Much less would you say that a sermon on the doctrines of the bible were theoretic. Scientific dairying has been arrived at through endless experiment, but the bible was given to us, and while we may experiment with the teachings by applying them to our lives, yet they are true regardless of the success we may have in our handling them. Of course, a man may theorize about the scriptural doctrines, but you will not find that in the Lutheran church. We have heard a good many sermons, and have preached a few, and think we are able to judge a thing about a sermon, but theorizing sermons to our knowledge are painfully conspicuous for their absence. and the conferences you do not get theory, you get the explanation of a text, and usually the practical application of it. I remember eleven years ago the pastor was on the synodical program with the assigned subject, "Practical Religion," which would hardly be classed as theoretic, and I am sure the subject was not theorized. And when a text is explained the preacher does not set forth his own views of the subject, but he declares what the bible teaches on the subject. The preacher may be keen in his understanding and subtle in his handling of the text, but that is not theory. The preacher is rightfully confined to the bible as subject matter, and he ought not to set forth his own opinions. A right preacher is not responsible for the thing he preaches, for he but declares the Gospel. You will find the Lutheran preachers strong on this. Our church has always maintained an educational ministry, and in order to do that she has to educate a good many of her preachers, rather than send them out with what education they may have and get their education while they are preaching, though there may be advantages in that sometimes. A scholarly sermon is not necessarily a theoretic sermon, nor an unscholarly sermon a practical one. You will find in the Lutheran pulpit, very generally, the text explained and applied for that is our Lutheran idea of a sermon. Luther said he would rather speak so the servants and the peasants would understand him, for there were upwards of two thousand of them in his congregation, while there were not over forty of the doctors. One reason why Luther emphasized the preaching in the vernacular was in behalf of the "poor and the unlearned," that they might understand the gospel, and apply it. It is not at all the idea of our preachers, to get lost in theory, but to apply the gospel to the needs of the day.

To Treat Potato Seed

Arrangements have been completed by the University Department of Plant Pathology to carry on experimental work on potato seed treatments in co-operation with some of the largest potato growers of western Nebraska. Seed treatments have long been used for the prevention and control of such diseases as scab, blackleg, and stem rot. In the new series of experiments which will be started in May at Chadron an attempt will be made to find the shortest, simplest and most effective method of controlling these diseases under western Nebraska conditions. The treatment at present recommended is as follows: Soak all seed for 30 minutes (before cutting) in a solution of 4 ounces corrosive sublimate in 30 gallons of water. This amount of solution will treat 30 bushels of potatoes. Corrosive sublimate should be used only in wooden containers. It is a violent poison, and potatoes treated in it should not be eaten or fed to stock.
